TESORO 1982

The expressions seemed to form with little effort. Exploring friendships, experiencing "good times," and participating in the years' activities provoked a renewed sense of pride among the individuals. The students recognized this evolution, and the expressionless became the animated, while the meek became the outspoken. The apathy of the past was recognizably fading and all of the characters became part of a unique "mass," full of humor, vitality, and enthusiasm. Students found the year innovative, exciting, and eventful and while the pressures of the high school become too much for some, we find that the pressures become bearable "only when we laugh!"

1. Sailors Lee Anne Wong, Debbie Gouker, and Alice Yang smile approvingly once "hitting port." 2. Theresa Marelich claims to be the oldest Rio senior. 3. The RA'ettes flash their new western uniforms to the Homecoming crowd. 4. The Class of '82 prove that they still have the spirit to capture the rally awards. 5. Sophomore Kevin Johnson gets ready for some "heavy cream" action. 6. Julie Barges is happy that she is a "River Rat!"

Is it in the gesture of the mouth which needs no words? The reflections of the smiles proves that the timid have become the intrepid and the listlessness of the past has been overshadowed by the comedy and vigor of the present. Originality and experimentation ran rampant during all of the school activities.

1. Another contented Raider! 2. The Der Wiener Dog awaits the arrival of the Homecoming princesses. 3. Charles McKerras poses some interesting suggestions to Patty Haas. 4. CHUG! 5. Does this mean that it's all off for Saturday night? 6. Rio underclassmen wait in anticipation for something to cheer about.

Individuality reigned supreme throughout the years' activities. With innovative routines, events, and outlooks, the students expressed their "freedom of choice" in acting exactly as they felt. Conformity was no longer a prerequisite for the student body, and the students quickly realized that they were the potential difference between the success or failure of their futures.

Cheerleaders Kim Catron, Katrina Frank, and Sally Alessi show their approval over another Raider victory.

The students developed a new feeling; A sense that they, although individual, were unified as one, if only for a brief moment in their lives. Realizing the importance of relationships, the students seemed to search out for the "perfect friend," and although friends seemed plentiful at times, attaining the ultimate goal in friendship still seemed just out of reach for most.

"It's all in the way you view the game, son." 5. Adrianne VanQuill and Jane Robinson prepare for the Homecoming parade. 6. "Life is crashing down on me!"

The laughter flowed generously during all of the spirit week activities. Horse races, military maneuvers, unicycles, and playboy bunnies were all part of the creativity which flourished throughout the student body. Being "on-stage" became the status quo, as each student tried to "out-do" the other, dressing in unique costumes and exhibiting innovative behavior.

The ironies, the emotions, the ideosyncracies, and the experiences have all taken their place in our frame of reference . . . our memories. We experienced joy, sorrow, tragedy, wonder, hope, and bewilderment throughout the minutes and hours which made up our year, and even though we may no completely remember the names of the events, our smiles will reflect the happiness and the unity that we once shared.

5▲ 6▼

Rio students, faculty, and parents "Let the Good Time Roll," during the Homecoming festivities, and the laughter and smiles prevailed throughout the week of events. Sponsored by Student Government, the annual "Spirit Week," included "Western Day," "Uniform Day," "Roaring 20's/ Gangster Day," "Preppy Day," and "Wheels Day." The Homecoming rally proved to be one of the best in Rio history, with returning alumni, alumni queens, and the naming of the 1981 Homecoming princesses. Adding a new event to the activities, a parade (from Rio to El Camino H.S.) was held, with many spectators and an entire entourage, including Rio's marching band, the RA'ettes, a military color guard, and the Del Wiener Dog! The highlight of the Homecoming game, in which the Raiders fell to defeat, was the fabulous halftime presentation, complete with glass floats (Seniors won!), decorated cars, and the Homecoming princesses, escorted by their fathers. 1980 Queen, Becki Steveson, was on hand to crown the 1981 Homecoming Queen, Johanna Mills.

"There is so much good in the worst of us, and so much bad in the best of us, that it hardly becomes any of us to talk about the rest of us."

"Special events" provided increased enjoyment for the students, helping the school to laugh at others, while laughing at ourselves. Some "non-athletic" teams such as the Academic Decathlon and Mock Trial brought acclaim to the student body, while a visit from George Romney and the foreign exchange students kept the students questioning. The students try desperately to make the year diverse (yet enjoyable) and this year certainly exemplified that fact.

"Mirror, mirror on the wall, I thought you said you had the answers to it all."

A new event was added to the Homecoming festivities this year. In an effort to attract more public participation in the activities, a parade, from Rio to El Camino, was organized. The parade, which included the eight Homecoming princesses, the 1980 Queen, Becki Steveson, the Rio Marching Band, the RA'ettes, four class floats, an army procession, and numerous decorated vehicles, was viewed by over a hundred well wishers, who lined Watt Avenue. The parade proved to be a highlight in the day of outstanding activities, and should prove to be a continuing event in the future.

A CONTEST OF ACADEMIC STRENGTH

FOR CALIFORNIA

Once again, Rio proved it's superior intelligence by winning the Sacramento County Academic Decathlon competition, held November 21 at CSUS. Composed of Juniors and Seniors, Rio's six-member team represented three categories reflecting the students GPA: varsity (C), scholastic (B,) honor (A.) Competing against 21 other local high schools from Sacramento County, Rio won by a remarkable 27 points, enabling them to compete in the statewide competition at Whittier College on December 29, where Rio placed 11th out of 25 teams.

The decathlon included written tests in English literature and grammar, fine arts, mathematics, physical and biological sciences, social science and career education. Students were also required to write an essay on a Shakespearean quote, give a four-minute prepared speech, a two-minute impromptu speech, and participate in an interview. The final competition was the "Super Quiz," which concentrated on the topic of energy.

For their efforts and accomplishment, each team member received a medal. The school was awarded a plaque and given the perpetual trophy. In addition to these awards, Rio walked away with 14 individual achievement awards, including seven gold, one silver, and six bronze. After the Decathletes return from the state competition, they represented all of the students in the state by serving as honorary pages at the State Capitol rededication ceremonies on January 4th-9th. Congratulations to one of the best teams at Rio.

Sports Spectacular was a huge success. Sponsored by Student Government and Mission Oaks Park and Recreation district, the 160 contestants ran, passed, ate, and tugged their way through the grueling 3½-hour contest. After the "flour" had cleared, the Seniors had become victorious. This marks the second 1st place finish for the Class of '82 (the other coming in 1979, as Freshmen.) The event raised over $550 for the school and was believed to be the best-behaved, most-provitable, and most-entertaining edition in the 14 year history of the event. Sincere appreciation goes to team coaches Theresa Marelich, Chuck Gebhardt, Chris Gregory, Steve Rugiero, Sandy Mathias, John Polhemus, Marilyn McConnell, and Don Day.

"And he gave it for his opinion, that whoever could make two ears of corn or two blades of grass to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind, and do more essential service to mankind than the whole race of politicians put together."

It was an exciting year for the politically-minded students at Rio. George Romney, ex-governor and once presidential hopeful, made a public appearance to the school government classes. Mr. Romney delighted the students with his views on the economy, the draft, Reaganomics, and the American society. He also shared his recollections from his years as a governor and as a member of the presidential cabinet. Mr. Romney proved once again that "Old politicians never die, they just go on the lecture circuit."

Disregarding a 17-year tradition at Rio, the boys of Key Club chose not to pick a junior as their 1982-83 Sweetheart. Crowned by the 1981-82 Sweetheart Senior Michelle Frank, Sophomore Jeanni Ferry continued a legacy for the Ferry family (sister Patti was a sweetheart nominee in 1980.) Chosen out of a field of four juniors and four sophomores, Jeanni outscored the others after a tedious and lengthy questioning session that included such brain testers as, "Who is the president of the United States?" "If you were a tube of toothpaste, would you be the top, the middle, or the bottom?" and "Recite the Pledge of Alligence." Jeani proved the most intelligent and beautiful of the bunch, and will serve as the representative for the club for the next year.

"I have a message for all of the Rio students: If you ever have the opportunity of living in another country — GO! Don't lose your chance, you are going to have a great experience."

— Vania Barriga

Three students from foreign lands "rubbed arms" with Rio students during the 1981-82 school year. Vania Barriga (from Bolivia,) Gaeton Gorremons (from Belgium,) and Kumie Hirota (from Japan,) took the opportunity to leave their homes and families to experience the American culture. Vania and Kumie were active in Student Government, Vania ran on the track team, and Gaeton was a member of the varsity tennis team, participated in all of the school activities, and was active in public speaking. All of the students at Rio seemed to enjoy this mix of cultures and we wish Vania, Gaeton, and Kumie — all of the luck in the world for the future.

A jury had just found their clients guilty of robbery and assault with a deadly weapon, but the three attorneys let out a loud scream, jumped up, and hugged each other. They were celebrating because Rio's team had just won the Third Annual Law-Related Education Conference Mock Trial competition. Rio "attorneys" Becky Endres, Craig Simmons, and Dannielle Quisenberry were judged as having the best courtroom technique in the competition. The team, representing Sacramento County, participated in the California State Mock Trial competition and placed 3rd, losing only to Los Angeles County (the eventual winner.) Rio's Moot Court team placed 12th (out of 20) in the other part of the day-long Sacramento competition.

"How often have I said to you that when you have eliminated the impossible, whatever remains, however improbable, must be the truth."

Within this section, we have incorporated faculty paragraphs about "What makes them laugh at Rio?" After hearing constant pleas from teachers for years about "deadlines and commitments," it seems ironic to us that many teachers are really examples of what they warned us not to be. With each "pull and tug" we have finally succeeded in accurately portraying Rio's faculty as individuals, complete with a sense of understanding and humor.

"I should have more faith; I ought to know by this time that when a fact appears opposed to a long train of deductions it invariably proves to be capable of bearing some other interpretation."

Alice Kubo, Principal

"Horace wrote that without love and laughter there is no joy; live amid love and laughter. Fortunately, I am principal of Rio Americano High School. It is a joy to be here! What makes me laugh about Rio? I laugh because I look forward to each new day at Rio. What more could I say when I have a great faculty and staff, an enthusiastic, well-behaved and talented group of students attending Rio, and supportive parents who desire an excellent educational environment for their sons and daughters?"

1. Pat Heple, Administrative Secretary.
2. Pat Wilson, Registrar.

"Laughter comes from: Spirit Group, 'What does my hair look like?' Faculty, 'What is a purchase order?' Alice Kubo, 'How much more can I spend?' Dean Dayton, 'OVERSPENT ... Again, Again, and AGAIN! But alas, as the year rolls on, the budget is balanced and our school year is "SPENT."

1. Sandy Mathias, Financial Secretary.
2. Joan Mussalum, Nurse.
3. Shirley Frick, Librarian.
4. Gladys Murphey, Faculty Secretary.

Chris Gregory, Composition, AP English, English 11.

"The students sense of humor is probably the major thing that makes me laugh. If they didn't seem to be having a good time, I wouldn't have so much fun."

"Don't ask me any questions — I might just tell you the truth."

John Berger, English 10x, English 11.

"What makes me laugh about Rio? The students, the teachers, the administration, and the parents, too!"

Bill Jenks, English 9, English 11, English 11x.

"I laugh when I see, in the lazy afternoon sun, twenty aspiring RA'ettes posturing energetically before the large windows, flinging coiffured curls and pony tails piquantly back and forth. I laugh when I read notes such as the following in the suggestion box:

Mr. Jenks, There is a bomb in the gear shift of your quaint bike. On the first revolution of the front wheel it will blow. You will experience acute bombitis. We suggest footpower.

The Chain Gang
And I laugh every time I think of the unique mixture of personalities lumped together at Rio: shy and sweet, bold and saucy, serious and intense, irreverent and funny — to mention a few. Of course, there are a few duds like those who smear grease of freshman lockers, but taken as a whole, I would be willing to bet that we have the most consistantly creative, the most harmlessly humorous, and the most loquaciously likeable student body in the entire district."

Judy LaVergne, Basic English, English 9, English 9x.

Yard Birds

"Electronic buzzers, fly-the-coop bells,
Release for those caged by the rule.
Synchronized flight and the halls are assailed
By the flocks populating our school.

Scatter, flutter, colors clutter
The placid vistas of campus grass.
But of a feather those birds do gather
In turfs akin to each separate mass.

For those who do hunger, ravenous crops,
The lines do form at the rear.
They nest near the snack bar, casually propped,
Pecking cookies, a mega-caloried career!

For those who fluff and preen in class,
Any crowd is their center stage.
The better to gander at those who pass
And strut for those who praise.

Distant squeals from gulls and girls.
Those scavengers and birds of prey,
For a tasty chunk of a gorgeous hunk
They scan the quad each day.

Student chatter, locker clatter,
A busy yard of exciting bird,
To whom those things which really matter
Lie in the "squawken," not the written, word.

— J. LaVergne

"One flew east, one flew west
— one flew over the cuckoo's nest."

JoAnn Gronbach, Creative Writing II, English 11.

Pauline Andersen, Senior English, English 10.

"What makes me laugh? MY CLASSES!"

June Gatewood, English 10x, English 11.

"The bright, witty students make me cheerfully chuckle for the following reasons: first, their excuses show creativity, "The essays in my father's car! You didn't tell us it was due today. My dog ate it! What essay???" Secondly, their words of encouragement, inspire me. "Why do you pick such boring novels? Why can't we see films like Mr. Jenks? Are you Scrooge?", but sometimes their smiles lighten my spirits," Bye, have a nice Christmas!"

"It takes two to speak the truth — one to speak, and another to hear."

Stephen Ruggiero, Biology.

"What makes me laugh" "A good joke, myself, and students who ask me what unit a test is on, 5 minutes before the test."

Marion Gribkov, Biology, Chemistry, Physics.

"Doug Post when he describes his bedroom. Lisa Obey when she comes up onto my podium so she can be taller. Carrie Cornwell's attempts to keep the rain off her head in Chemistry. Wayne Orvick's trying to avoid D's in Biology."

"Take my wife . . . PLEASE!"

IF YOU CAN KEEP YOUR HEAD
WHILE ALL THOSE ABOUT YOU ARE LOSING THEIRS.
MAYBE YOU DON'T UNDERSTAND THE SITUATION.

"And so no force, however great,
can stretch a cord, however fine, into a horizontal line, That shall be absolutely straight."

Bob Jamieson, Life Science, Physical Science

Charles La Due, Chemistry

"Would you buy a used car from this man?"

Dean Dayton, Vice Principal

"What things make me laugh about Rio? I have been at Rio for sixteen years and have had many interesting and funny experiences. I could probably answer the question with one word, "Kids."

One of the things that never change are the students. For the most part they are the same year after year. I hear the same excuses for being tardy, truant or whatever trouble they may be in. As the saying goes, "Kids will be kids." They will try and talk their way out of situations.

I have to keep everything in a humorous perspective or this job would drive me to the nearest "Psycho" ward."

1. Ramona McCune, Secretary; Mardella Rothschiller, Administrative Secretary; Carole Marshall, Secretary.

"What a way to make a living ..."
2. Mattie Newsome, Campus Monitor.

1. JoAnne Kerber, CD Secretary.
2. JoAnne Knecht, Campus Monitor.

Gayle Kernick, Administrative Assistant.

"The funny reasons students give for being tardy . . . ie. 'But no one told me!', A student on the day of a test ask, 'What chapters does this test cover?' Mrs. Kubo in a staff meeting . . . 'I don't want to hear that,' At the end of the day when I realize that my serious problems have turned out O.K."

Ella DeLeon, Administrative Assistant.

"Mrs. Kubo's jokes make me laugh because I identify with her when she gets mixed up telling them."

"If you're so smart, WHY AREN'T YOU RICH?"

Theresa Marelich, Department Chairperson, Civics, Student Government, International Relations, World History

"The yearly announcement at the beginning of school every year for at least the past 15 years. "M & O (Maintenance and Operations) has been working on the air conditioning and the heating system all summer and everything is in working order for the coming school year."

"I'm not cynical just experienced."

Bob Cook, Civics, Anthropology

"It makes me laugh when students ask, Are we doing anything important this period? Is this going to be boring? Do we have to spell every word right? Do I have to take this test? What time do we get out today."

John Henderson; U.S. History, World History, Pre-Algebra.

There are several things that make me laugh about Rio. Some of them have to do with school itself — the famous Rio roof and the equally famous Rio heating and air-conditioning system. Some other laughs come from some of the school's procedures — the "5-minute" break and computer registration. Some laughs come from the people at Rio — Mr. Linde's jokes (not the ones he tells in class) and the freshman. As long as there are freshman at Rio, there will be something to laugh about."

"The meek shall inherit the earth . . . after everyone else is through with it!"

Richard Thorn; World History, Economics, Consumer Education.

"What makes me laugh? That's tough! I could easily discuss the other side of that coin. Like the sad feelings I get when a student fails. Maybe this indicates that I take things too seriously. I did have a good laugh the other day. Alice Kubo told me a joke. It was funny but watching her laugh was the real treat. Sometimes my classes make me laugh (mostly at myself). It's fun! I think I'll let it happen more often."

"Life isn't grand anymore . . . It's two grand!" "Living well is our best revenge."

Don Day: Latin 1,2,3,4, Spanish 1, World History. "It makes me laugh when a student has been absent from class for a week or more and the first day back, he is called for a conference by either the counselor, the office, or an administrator. I could cry but figure that it is better to laugh."

Dale Jones: French 1, Spanish 2, World History. "The students of Rio make me laugh. If I start the day in a bad mood, I soon become more cheerful as soon as my students come to class. They are usually smiling and friendly, and I enjoy being with them. I have been teaching for more than thirty years, and I still like working with the young people of high school age."

"Toupe, isn't that a french word? Ole, isn't that a spanish verb? O.K., can't tell the difference these days!"

Jerry Martin, Spanish 2,3,4,5.

"Rio makes me laugh with delight because I see my friends."

Gwendalyn Curry, German 2,3,4.

Mayme Scott, Spanish 2,3, Advanced Placement.

"Laughter comes from 'new' administrative policies and procedures, air conditioning in my classroom, students who wear sunglasses in class, cheating on an oral, improntu speaking exam, Me! trying to achieve my goal of 'not trying to get behind this year!'; and Me! trying to think of something to write here."

"You know my methods in such cases Watson . . ."

John Hawck, US History, Drama.

George Linde, US History, Newspaper

"The biggest laughter is the time worn statement of many students: "Gee, Mr. Linde, I finished my assignment, but I left it at home. Can I turn it in tomorrow?" To me, that's about as funny as one of my jokes!"

Chuck Gebhardt, Radio and Television, Public Speaking, Senior English.
 "Things that make me laugh: 1. Excuses for not having assignments finished on time. 2. Coca Cola Machines. 3. Meetings about nothing. 4. Students who say "thanks" for a grade they earned. 5. People that never see the grey in any situation. 6. Bands that play at noon on the quad — FLAT!"

Betty Miller, French 2,3, Readers Theatre, Drama.
 "I laugh on rally days when students take an hour lunch and on E days when 10 minutes passing means get there when you want. I laugh when I try to teach and get ready for Readers Theatre and plays at the same time, and when (if) my 6th period French II class is serious for three minutes. But most of all I laugh at Mr. Gebhardt trying to design my play seta and at the final rehearsal for the faculty play when everyone realizes that the show is the next day!"

Emory Haworth, Pre Algebra, Algebra I.

"I Could never make out what those damned dots meant."

Al Berkowitz, Pre Algebra, Algebra I.

"The block schedule makes me laugh."

"A man should keep his little brain attic stocked with all the furniture that he is likely to use, and the rest he can put away in the lumber-room of his library, where he can get it if he wants it."

Ernest McNeil, H.S. Arithmetic, Geometry, Algebra II.

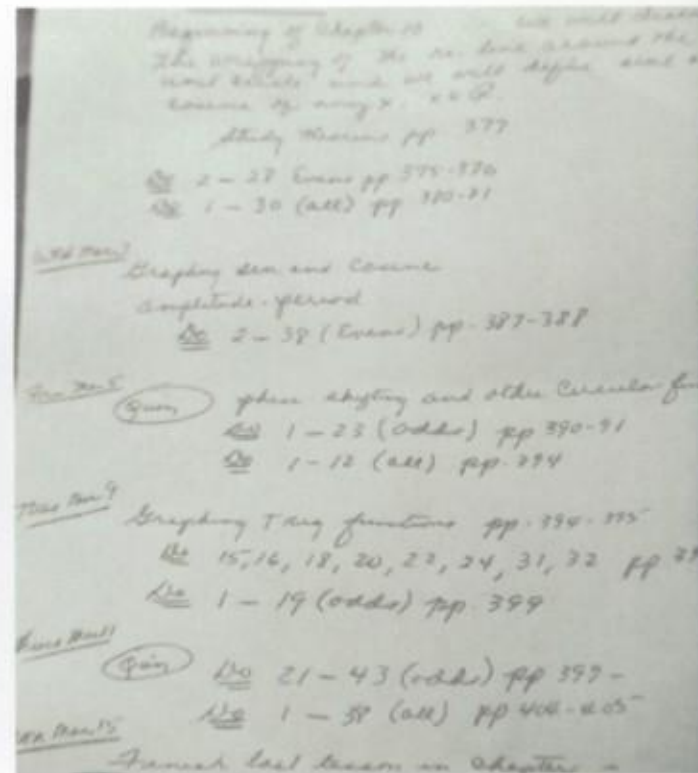

"I always laugh at the crazy excuses I get from students who don't have their homework. The best one yet was the student who said he made his homework into a paper airplane and it was hijacked to Cuba."

"Population, when unchecked, increases in a geometrical ratio. Subsistence only increases in an arithmetical ratio."

Joe Sugimoto, Yearbook, Ceramics.

It's funny sitting here trying to think of something that is laughable at our school. The things that immediately comes to my mind is our great, "Modern" heating and air conditioning system and what amazes me the most is how the roof repair men repair our old leaks and create new leaks. Waiting for repair service in our district is another laughable thing. Our ceramics students have not heard any school announcements for several years."

Editor note: "Although Peggy had been at Rio for many years, at the semester, she chose to leave Rio and return to college to obtain her Master's degree. Over the years, Peggy has turned the career center into a very efficient and business-like place for the students, and we know that all of the students, staff, and administration will miss her services tremendously."

Ben Fong, Jazz Ensemble, Concert Band, Guitar.

"The end of this year marks the end of my 2nd year at Rio. The experience that I've had has been simply beautiful. What makes me laugh are my students. They make me laugh, they make me cry, they make me mad, and they make me explode with excitement. There have been times when I could hug them with all my love. In the past two years I've grown really close to my students. I only hope they can feel open enough to allow me to help and to share, whether it be subject matter or a problem in life. To help and share; two main qualities of my teaching philosophy, and isn't that what love is all about?

Joe Axup, Madrigals, Orchestra, Concert Choir.
 "I laugh when I hear that one of our neighbor schools is supposed to be so superior to Rio."

Joe Belcastro, Coach, Physical Education. "Two things make me laugh about Rio: Every year when school starts, we are informed that the roofs have been fixed and there should be no more leaks. However, when the first rains come, yes you guessed it, there are several leaks throughout the whole school. We are also informed that the heat and air conditioning units have been fixed to work when they are supposed to. We find out there has been no change, the air conditioning works great in the winter and the heating system in the summer."

Janet Bee — Physical Education, RA'ettes. "Sarcastic" laugh — Some of the P.E. excuses. "I can't believe I'm Laughing" laugh — Mr. Linde's jokes. "Happy" laugh — Talking to students who have gained a feeling of self-satisfaction after accomplishing a goal. Also seeing someone enjoy physical activities. "Gleeful" laugh — Fridays before a long weekend or vacation."

Jerry Kaiser, Coach, Physical Education.

"What makes me laugh at Rio? Ron Suster making believe he is a lawyer while trying to change 'All the Rules.' My third period Sophomore class trying to play badminton and my fourth period class trying to play Volleyball."

Al Manfredi, Coach, Physical Education.

"The freshman Students! Each year they are more naive about everything around them and about them. They are curious, serious and fun to be with for the most part. Overall Rio is a fun place to work at; and being with a good group of faculty members as well as students makes it enjoyable to go to work each day."

Alice Kubo — "A true Athletic Supporter."

Henrietta Baron, Special Education Instructional Aide, shown here teaching the fine art of cuisine to her students. She has also published two best-selling cookbooks.

Pat Landenberg, Frankie Schneider, and an Aide, Learning Disability Center, take an active role in Rio activities. This year they spearheaded a successful fundraising drive for the Easter Seals Telethon, and with Student Government, placed first in Sacramento County for money raised.

Mae Schrader, Joe Kine, and Frankie Christie, Special Education Department, are certainly three of the happiest members of the Rio faculty. They are always available to help the many students in the special education program.

Having a job as a janitor at Rio is often hard, frequently dirty, and always interesting. Whether it be trying to fix the inconsistent heating system, cleaning "Christmas-snow" off the walls, or discovering the disarray after lunch in freshman hall, the janitors are always "ready for action" and willing to lend a helping hand. If the campus is considered a place of beauty, it is certainly because of the hard work and dedication put in by these men.

Although Rio has the lowest lunchtime attendance in the district, the cafeteria staff works extremely hard providing sandwiches and other delectables to other area schools. The snack bar, though, is constantly "jammed" with hungry students, who devour a variety of food, including nachos, yogurt, Egg McMuffins, potato chips, and sandwiches. The Rio kitchen is a center of activity every morning, and all Rio students are welcome to survey the food preparations.

SPIRIT

"It is a silly game where nobody wins."

Spirit seemed to come in abstract forms. Whether it be an innovative performance by the RA'ettes, an obnoxious spectacle by the River Rats, or an inspiring cheer from the Pep band — sometimes spirit appeared to have an element of contrast. There was not much to cheer about for the many athletic teams, but all students felt a sense of enthusiasm for their school. This "spirit" was evident in a number of clubs, classes and individuals, each trying to provide their own sense of a pride in themselves.

"I also say it is good to fall, battles are lost in the same spirit in which they are won."

1. Step . . . Two, Three, Four . . . Step . . . 2. The RA'ettes "flash" to the Homecoming crowd.
3. Rule #1: The smile must never fall from your face. 4. Just "kickin' back" during the Homecoming festivities. 5. "How much longer do I have to hold this position?"

The RA'ettes had an interesting year. With a constant "whir" of adding and losing girls, it seemed as if the drill team would be unorganized and their performances uninspiring. NOT SO! Every performance was razor-sharp, original, and a definite crowd pleaser. The girls were certainly the high point in all rallies, games, and activities, including numerous parades. This group of girls has elevated the status of the drill team to it's highest point in many years, and were rivaled only by their "alter-ego" team, the BLOCK'ettes.

1. Motivating an angry football crowd, while the team loses, can be quite a job. 2. "How do you do that Julie, You're so athletic!" 3. We are fired up! 4. Once a cheerleader, always a cheerleader. 5. The varsity cheerleaders considered the 1981-82 squad to be one of the best ever. Having had the experience of being cheerleaders before, the squad had no trouble getting into the Raider spirit. Their enthusiasm was displayed early, as they won a superior trophy, a spirit stick, and much acclaim at cheerleading camp. Throughout the year the girls showed their dedication to girls and guys athletics, and participated in several competitions, placing 1st and 2nd. Head cheerleader Sally Alessi, Johanna Mills, and songleader Kim Dawson were honored as among 16 girls out of 800 asked to apply for a position with the USA teaching staff.

1. The spirit squad proved to be a fun-loving, sorority-type of group. 2. Becky Sommerdorf She's got the beat! 3. Afternoon football games can get pretty "Hot." 4. Heidi Billings and Lynda Wills definately have a future as playboy bunnies. 5. We are just "very kinky girls." 6. Janine Schwilk proved that she was always ready for action.

The songleading squad got off to a slightly slow start this year, mainly because it was composed of eight girls with little or no cheerleading experience. Things fell into place quickly, though, as they received 3rd place honors (out of 12 teams) at summer songleading competition. These girls worked very hard throughout the summer and the school year supporting both boys and girls athletics, as well as school activities. Lead by heads Kim Dawson, Janine Schwilk, and Beth Phillips, the songleaders did a super job in promoting school spirit.

Rio Mascots were extremely "peppy" during the year. Freshman Heather Schlacter, Sophomores Laura Morrison and Marilyn Bargman, and Juniors Janine Moody and Cathy Rathbone were always ready to cheer our Raider teams on to VICTORY. These girls could be found at girls games, guys games, and most of the student activities (dress-up days, lunch-time contests, parties, dances, etc.) Constantly trying to fit in all of their responsibilities, the mascots had a very busy year.

"Being a mascot is pretty hard at times; you always have to be "up," even when your team is losing. It's a lot easier when you win!"

1. Sophomores can get organized, too! 2. Victory, Where are you? 3. "Gee, I didn't realize cheering at the games would be such fun." 4. Hey, Raiders . . . I think my arms are stuck in this position. 5. Hey, Catch the "leg" show. These girls must get a lot of exercise. 6. We're just being cute, too bad there aren't any spectators here to watch.

The Junior Varsity Cheerleaders worked extremely hard socializing, cheering, socializing, practicing, socializing, working out, socializing, etc. These were some of the most active girls on the campus and were very popular at rallies, games, and activities. Although they didn't do as well as expected at competition, their peers at Rio knew style and poise when they saw it, and the students thought that the JV cheerleaders were "No. 1." as well as being an extremely "cute" part of the Rio surroundings.

1. The freshman entourage awaits the arrival of the mighty freshmen football team. 2. "We want a V-I-C-T-O-R-Y!!! 3. Head cheerleader Lori Grey leads her squad, "Push 'em back, Push 'em back." 4. A flying freshman goes through the cheerleaders tunnel. 5. "Gee!, I wonder what everyone's doing on Friday night; Hey, you guys . . ." 6. OK Karen (Cori,) Stop posing for the camera.

The 1981-82 freshman cheerleaders proved that first year jitters can soon be curtailed. This squad of nine girls, chosen during the spring of 1981, showed their enthusiasm early in the year by carrying on the legacy of all Rio cheerleaders, and received all superior ratings, trophies and ribbons at summer spirit camp. These girls were among the most spirited groups on the campus, cheering at girls and guys games and leading the freshman class in numerous activities. They also did very well at the annual spring competitions.

Always an effective "noise maker" at all of the student activities and games, the pep band helps in motivating the crowds, as well as our sports teams. Led by Brian Nakagawa, and directed by Ben Fong, the band was certainly an important part of the school spirit, and their enthusiasm was hard to equal.

1. Such precision like this is beyond compare. 2. Scott Wilson shakes "it" for the crowd. 3. Arms Left! The drill team performs at the girls basketball TOC. 4. The crowd delights over an innovative move. 5. Steve Osegueda gets into some "heavy" air-guitar action. 6. Jeff, I think this is a good place for a stick-up! 7. Organization and style are the key words.

The "organized" Block'ettes were a new addition to the Spirit Group. Displaying an over-whelming amount of grace and style, the group of guys delighted crowds with their innovative and original routine. The group performed at the annual Sports Spectacular and at the girls Tournament of Champions. Performing to AC/DC's "Shot Down in Flames," these guys showed that they were "more than HOT," and rivaled the established RA'ettes for the title of "best drill team at Rio."

It was an interesting year for sports, with girls athletics capturing most of the "lime-light". While most Varsity sports (guys) met unually hard competition, the undergrads provided much enthusiasm and determination in an otherwise lackluster year. Though budget cuts have hurt the athletic program slightly, parents, staff, and students have joined forces to ensure a prosperous future for athletics at Rio.

This year's Varsity football team didn't do quite as well as it had been expected. Despite their more disappointing games, the team continued on with the encouragement of their head coach, Bob Wegsteen. The season included key losses to El Camino, Mira Loma, Elk Grove, and Valley, all of whom tied for first place in the CVC. Encouraged by Coach Wegsteen, the team did their best to get through a difficult season, which was plagued by changes in the coaching staff, unexpected game rescheduling, and a low number of returning starters. These obstacles turned out to be too much to overcome and the Raiders finished with an overall record of 2-7 and a tie with Mesa Verde for 5th place in the CVC.

All throughout the tough J.V. Football season, the young team demonstrated excellent effort and good sportmanship. They put in a great amount of practice and enthusiasm into every game they played. Though they didn't place near the top of the CVC, the little Raiders showed much potential to being one of the tough teams in the area next year.

They don't get much respect from upperclassmen...but they work just as hard as the older teams to excel. Yes, the freshman football team is definitely worthy of a lot more praise. Led by a new Rio coach, John Rinbach, and assistant coach Rex Bacon, they won some key games in the late season to place a respectable 4th in the CVC. On the grid, they were led by the efforts of Ken Olson, Brian Gaffney, Mike Terry, Peter Cardinale, and Most Valuable Player, Troy Ortego. We all have good reason to be proud of these future champs.

1. Don't just stand there. Help me! 2. Here I come. 3. Here I go again for another touchdown. 4. They're off and running. 5. What a great hand off. 6. Did you see that good looking girl go by?

The new head varsity volleyball coach, Craig Lore, came to Rio with very little concept of the skill level of its athletes or the level of play in the C.V.C. When he finally saw what he had to work with, they did a lot of that, "WORK." Since Rio had such a short team, Coach Lore worked with the team to develop a fast offense, hoping to leave its opponents on the floor. Rio did just that as they captured second place in the C.V.C. behind Encina, which qualified them for the T.O.C. The Raiders then traveled to Los Banos for the San Joaquin section playoffs, losing in two games after leading in the first 13-7. The loss ended their season with a 11-6 record. Twinkle Argys, Rio's setter and team captain, along with middle hitter Beth McCarthy, and outside hitter Ellen Reller were chosen to the all C.V.C. league team. At the fall awards banquet, Twinkle Argys was honored as Most Valuable player, Beth McCarthy and Cam Sahm received Best Offensive and Defensive players respectively.

Everyday they were in the pool. They battled wind and rain before the sun even came up. They are, perhaps, the most dedicated athletes at Rio. Not too many people watch them or even follow them, but our water-polo squad definitely takes a lot of pride in what they do. Coach Mark Carrington stressed team spirit and togetherness, and the result was a strong 2nd place finish in the CVC and a berth in the sub-sections. Outstanding players included Eric Swanson, MVP Tim Mikulin, and team captain John Bayless.

The 1981 girls and guys cross country team had an outstanding season. These runners practiced long hard hours to become great! Thanks to the superior coaching abilities of Judy LaVergne and Clyde Huyck, the harriers came away with victories in invitationals and league meets. Also, Rio sent more runners to the Section Championship this year than any other year. In addition to these achievements, members of the team had fun working together.

What a pleasure to be back coaching! This year's cross country team was one of the highlights of my teaching career. The runners were gracious, hard working, considerable and loyal. After an eight year lay off from coaching, I was hesitant to come back and "get into it," but with the people on that team the transition was so much easier than I anticipated. Working with Judy LaVergne, coaching my Petra and the other fine people, that made up the team, will always be a memory I will cherish. . . . Love the bone fone

Cross country is probably one of the most rewarding of sports since each athlete not only serves as a team member but also runs to meet his/her own goals. During the season, the new runners soon lose that soft, coddled look and become strong and lean. They gain self confidence and know they are among the best of endurance athletes. They gain the mental toughness and discipline it takes to both compete and to run daily workouts regardless of the rain or heat. When it comes to competition they can choose any level from high school meets to the marathon. And finally, runners are runners for life; any time of the year, even after the season is over, I'll meet some of our runners out on the trail or at a local race. Why? Because they're hooked. And for a coach, that is the ultimate reward.

The season of 1981 proved to be a rough one for Rio's Varsity soccer team. They had an unrewarding record of 5-5, although it didn't reflect the true ability of the team. Rio was graced with many talented players among them were Mitch Gandy (MVP), Leon Shahanian, Michael Fife, and Wendell Hubble (each made all-league).

Bert Terry has high expectations for next year's squad. He expects them to dominate the league next year because Rio will have one of the oldest and most experienced team. Coach Terry said, "Next year is our year!"

The 1981 — 1982 Freshmen Basketball team is one to remember. Not only did they take second place in CVC, but also, the freshmen team broke over four school records. Some of which were: the best league record (10-2), the best overall season record (16-4), the best field goal percentage, and the most points scored in one game (95). In addition to all of these achievements, Rio defeated Jesuit 53 — 47. This year's Most Valuable Player was Dever Matich who scored 325 points while achieving 181 rebounds. Team captain was Pete Cardinale. Special recognition should go to these players for being one of the best Freshmen Basketball teams Rio's ever had.

The defending Northern State champions, Rio Americano entered the Northern State Tournament of Champions with an unblemished record of 30-0, ranking them number one in the state among Division II teams.

In the opening round at the University of Pacific, Rio faced Sir Francis Drake, only to fall 57-50 in a hard fought battle. This was Rio's first and only loss. Drake went on to win the state championship.

After easily winning the C.V.C. title, Rio advanced to the Sacramento section Tournament of Champions, surviving two close calls by Nevada Union, 58-53, and Colfax, 57-46. Playing Oakmont in the finals, Rio won by seven, but the game wasn't as close as the score indicated.

Jennifer Hemmer was chosen tournament M.V.P. and teammates Beth McCarthy and Twinkle Argys were chosen to the All-Tournament team.

Beth led the team in scoring with 522 points and grabbed 268 rebounds, making her an all-C.V.C. League selection as well as Sacramento Union All-City first team and Sacramento Bee second team.

Jennifer led the team in rebounds with 330 and was the second leading scorer with 506 points making her the Sacramento Bee's All-City M.V.P., a member of the Sacramento Union second team, and on All-C.V.C. League choice.

"Twinkle", led the Raiders with 206 assists and 154 points, was also chosen to the Sacramento Bee All-City second team along with receiving Honorable Mention by the Sacramento Union and was an All-C.V.C. League selection. Melinda Walker rounded off the front line with 293 rebounds and with 239 points. Whitney Miller, the other starting guard, was an All-Tourney selection at the Davis Tourney.

Coach Joe Belcastro contributes a total team effort, balance, and the unselfishness of everyone on the team to the success of a record season.

The Datsun 280 ZX, the Philly 76ers, and the girls' J.V. Basketball team all have one thing in common . . . They're AWESOME! Yes, the girls' J.V. Hoopsters had another incredible, undefeated year and increased their school game records to 78 and 0. These girls displayed the unique ability to play as a team, and in so doing, captured the C.V.C. league championships. Sue Geist and Linda Reeds made the all-league team, while Alison Damant, Lynn Mackenzie and Julie Barges received honorable mention. Each player was a valuable asset to the team. Their individual efforts molded into championship material. This year proves Rio's outstanding reputation in girls' basketball is correct. There's one word that describes this team . . . Hot!

We can honestly say that the Rio guys tennis team is a Sacramento dynasty! Rio is lucky to have such a select group of quality tennis players. Although they lost a couple of matches, due to illness and injury, they dominate the C.V.C. Bruce Anapolski and Darryl Lee, who is Rio's number one player and has been ranked nationally, have both been great assets to the team. They had a fantastic record this year which makes them the champion team that they are. Although a lot of the exceptional talent will be graduating this year, there is a surprising amount of quality among the underclassmen. They have had an exciting year and are looking forward to continuing Rio's tradition of being number one in the next few years.

Varsity baseball 1982 was an interesting year. Starting out on a rainy note, most of the games in the early part of the season were cancelled. This didn't stop the Raiders enthusiasm! The team had a few losses and several wins. The proud attitude of the players made the entire season worthwhile.

Once again this year, Rio's spirited freshmen brought alive America's favorite sport, baseball! All of the many exciting participants enjoyed a fun year as they got ready to progress to the junior varsity level. As they grew in experience, they were very competitive. Although it is Rio's smallest athletic team, the divers on Rio's diving team could be among Rio's hardest working athletes. Practicing daily, competing in meets (sometime 3-4 times a week), and developing techniques in their spare time, the divers spend much of their spring semester perfecting and improving dives. With increased awareness of the diving team, we should see an increase of divers in the future.

Softball started off on a soggy note this year with rain disturbing many of Rio's early league games but didn't affect the play of Rio's talented athletes. Fighting for the CVC title, Rio dropped its first league game to rival El Camino, 5-4, but was ready to avenge the Eagles in the second round. Rio placed second at the Easter Softball Classic to Metro leader St. Francis. It took eleven innings for the troubadours to become victors of the close 1-0 game. Erin Warr, Lynda Wills and Mary Lucca were chosen to the all-tournament team.

The Raider defense was led by pitcher Erin Warr, who last year set a state record with a 23-3 mark and is one of the finest pitchers in the area. The infield consisting of shortstop Mary Lucca, first baseman Cam Sahm, second baseman "Twinkle" Argys, and third baseman Whitney Miller turned over many great double plays and were strong throughout the season. Donna Wills, Heidi Bertholf, and Lynda Wills rounded off the Raider nine with many spectacular catches in the outfield. Besides batting, Rio's base running proved to be the key to offense as sisters Donna and Lynda Wills led the team in steals with safe slides. Coach Larry Kelley stated that his team was young but not inexperienced and is looking forward to more championship teams in years to come.

The boys track team had a great season, part of which was due to the fantastic turn out of over thirty members. There was a good number of quality underclassmen that look very promising for the next few years. Along with a hand full of talented seniors, the team performed exceptionally well this year. One of Rio's smallest sports teams, girls track, had a short, but good season. Unfortunately for the runners, the long season of rain prevented them from competing in as many meets as they would have liked. Considering the small number of team members, there was a lot of quality among them. They put up a tough fight against the other schools and did extremely well at all the league meets.

The years ahead look bright for varsity golf at Rio. This years team consisted of a majority of returning Seniors, who made Rio a strong contender in the CVC. Ryan Scott was the stand-out member of the team and one of the leading golfers in the area. Rio qualified for the sub-sections by becoming one of the three top teams in the league. Hopefully, with all of the new interest in golf, a winning tradition has developed on the Rio golf links.

Although a relatively new sport on the campus, the Rio Americano badminton team has "come of age," and has established itself as another one of Rio's future champions. For most of the team members, this was their first experience at this racket, and for some, a first in playing varsity-level competition. The future should be promising, though, because of the large number of outstanding players who will return to the team, such as Wendy Morton, Julie Trujillo, and Chad Contreras.

"Our patience will achieve more than our force."

Understanding the organization of clubs was a feat in itself, but the students were unusually supportive this year. Student Government gained much needed respect as the organizational body of students by taking full control of the budget for the first time in Rio's history. Other notable events included C.S.F.'s Candy Cane sale, Class Bake Sales and J.S.A.'s overnight conventions. "Club Week," an orientation for new members was a huge success and introduced many students to the world of "social clubbing."

"Men are made by natural unequal, It is vain, therefore, to treat them as if they are equal."

Reflecting back on the year, my feelings involve many mixed emotions. I think most of the members of student government were completely frustrated by the arguments and the seemingly constant "unorganization" of activities. It was also very discouraging at times to feel that student government's function was "bounded by tradition," yet we managed to gain a reputation, at least with the faculty and the administration, of being a very assertive group of students. It was very encouraging, though, to instigate and organize successful activities and feel as if the student body approved of our actions.

The school year began with many decisions concerning the student body budget. With low gate receipts, over-budgeting in the past, and a budget deficit, we kept a close watch on all expenditures, regulating all purchase orders, and monitoring the financial books throughout the year. Sandy Mathias helped us a great deal with all of our financial matters and to her we are truly grateful.

I don't feel that it is student government's place to evaluate our effectiveness or success, the only valid indicator is the reactions of the students. I hope that the students approved of our actions because many student government members worked extremely hard, spending countless hours on making the year enjoyable and eventful.

If nothing else, student government has learned to be "honest." "Honest" with the students, the faculty, the administration, and most importantly, "honest" with ourselves, realizing our objectives, our "obstacles," and our "importance."

Finally, I will always be indebted to Theresa Marelich. She was always able to handle our over-zealousness, our persistence, and our enthusiasm, while keeping student government moving toward a realization of our goals.

National Honor Society

We're very happy to have a part of the National Honor Society existing here at our school. This special group includes only the very serious students who have high hopes for important careers in the future. Their ideas may seem outrageous to some, but their grades show that they have the intelligence to reach their goals. This club is honoring these exceptional students, and they deserve it more than anyone else. Congratulations to all the members!!!

C.S.F.

Membership in the California Scholastic Federation is a privilege held by students maintaining a high grade point average. These students are serious about their classes and spend much time studying in order to earn the grades that they do. This year C.S.F. had many bake sales and raised funds by sponsoring the candy cane messages that the whole school enjoyed during the holidays. C.S.F. was also involved in a Playwright Series in which students were exposed to various plays in Sacramento.

"S" Club

This year's "S" (service) Club was a great success. With a fantastic turnout of seventy members, it accomplished a great number of various service projects. Along with many exciting celebrations, the club visited a hospital for elderly people during the holiday season, and spent many hours with needy children. The club also had fund raisers and donated the money to other service organizations.

Key Club

Key club, Rio's boy's service club, had an interesting selection of service projects throughout the year. They had many fund raisers and various banquets, aiding needy people in Sacramento. The whole school was able to enjoy their annual selection of the Key Club Sweetheart. Keeping alive Key Club tradition, this year's club was very active and filled with excitement!

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club is open to anyone with an interest in the language and culture. Spanish was spoken at club gatherings and the members found it challenging and very beneficial. To start off the school year, the club had a Spanish-Mexican dinner; the members were able to try foods that were different and new to them. During the holiday season, activities included secret pals and a special fiesta where the gift-givers revealed themselves. The club also gathered food and toys and presented them to needy Spanish families. Foreign Language Week was a great success for the club and a fun and cultural learning experience for all the members.

French Club

To start off the year, the French Club had a passionate French film festival, which enriched the minds of the whole student body!! In addition to this educational experience, the club made their services known at the school play. They had several French dinners including a part in the foreign language festivities, which was a new experience for the club advisor. The club has already made many plans for the upcoming year.

Latin Club

This club is one of Rio's finest language groups. They attended many plays and presentations which taught them a great deal about this very interesting language. The club has had many Latin banquets with some exciting guest speakers. Although the club was small this year, its ideas were big and very beneficial to all of the members.

J.S.A.

Rio is very fortunate to be one of a select group of schools to have a chapter of the Junior Statesmen of America. This is a group of people; who debate against other schools on the hottest issues in the news today. They attended various state-wide conventions and were recognized as one of the best chapters. They have made a fantastic comeback to become one of the strongest chapters. It has been an exciting year for all the members.

Mirada Staff Dies of Boredom

The Rio Mirada staff has been officially pronounced dead after an extensive rescue effort by Principal Alice Kubo.

Although details were sketchy at press time, it is believed that "boredom" was the official cause of death. "It seems as if the staff just keeled over trying to find something interesting to write about," commented Gayle Kernick, the administrator in charge of the newspaper class, "I know Alice (Kubo) tried to get something interesting to happen at Rio, but I guess she wasn't successful."

With this untimely passing of the Mirada staff, the end of the monthly newspaper appears to be only days away.

"It was just a case of having nothing to do, and I guess their nervous systems just couldn't take any more of it. We all will miss the students tremendously, and the truly sad part is that we are going to have to surplus four more teachers," commented Alice Kubo in a statement released by the principal's office. "There was a blessing in this whole mess; Mirada advisor George Linde was among the deceased and now we won't have to listen to those stupid jokes," Kubo concluded. Memorial services will be held for the Mirada staff on Senior Lawn, Monday, June 14, at noon.

Staff Suicide Attempt Thwarted by Draining of Pool

After months of threats from "bored" editors, a mass suicide had been planned. The plan was for the entire staff to jump off of the Rio high-diver simultaneously and drown each other. This event was to be held on Monday, June 7th, after the school's 19th annual commencement exercises. The staff, though, did not count on having their planned discovered by the Rio administration. Ella DeLeon, administrative assistant, recieved word of the proposed activity, and on Monday morning ordered that the swimming pool be drained. "It appears that the Mirada staff forgot to get this activity approved by Student Government," responded an angry DeLeon. "If we are going to have an organized campus, then we must respect all of the interested parties; what if Student Government had planned a wake, or a crab feed, or something, then we would have numerous activities going on and not enough administrators to cover all of them," she continued, "I can really relate to how the Mirada staff feels and I understand where they are coming from, and if they want to plan this activity for later in the summer, I don't foresee any problems with it. The administration just needs to be aware of these activities beforehand so that we can plan our schedules."

Mirada editor, Amy Grebitus indicated that the group would reschedule the activity at a more convient time. "I guess we over-stepped our limits, and next time we will be more considerate of Student Government and the administration," Grebitus remarked. Photo above shows the Mirada staff preparing for their mass suicide, but to their dismay, there is no water in the Raider pool.

HAPPY GRADUATION!

GREBITUS TAKES ADVISE FROM LINDE; SCHOOL HOLIDAY DECLARED!

"I held out for two years, but I guess I just broke from the pressures," remarked Amy Grebitus, editor of the Rio Mirada, after bowing to pressures to take advice concerning the management of the paper from advisor George Linde. Miss Grebitus has been producing the newspaper for two years, but finally forced to listen to her "boss" after it was reported that the Mirada was six weeks behind schedule and going bankrupt. "I knew the time would come when she would have to listen to me," Linde commented, "I just sat around and watched the roof fall in on her; she's a tough cookie, but she's full of sugar, and she couldn't handle the pressures." Since the duo has begun working together, the Rio Mirada has become the show-stopper at all of the international newspaper conventions, and this week it was reported that the newspaper will turn a profit for the first time in sixteen years. "I knew our newspaper relationship would work out, but it took Amy a little longer to realize it," Linde concluded.

After securing a major portion of the management powers of the Mirada staff from editor Grebitus, advisor Linde discusses a proposed coup of the Rio administration with fellow staffers Mark Igra and Twinkle Argys. It is believed that Igra and Argys are the "brains" behind the attempted takeover attempt.

LOST TYPIST FOUND; SAYS "JUST DOING MY JOB"

After an extensive cleaning of the Rio Mirada staff room, a small girl was discovered sitting at a typewriter lodged behind a file cabinet. The girl, identified as Mary Lampshade, was scheduled to graduate from Rio in 1967, but was left in a corner to finish typing a story for the November 1966 edition of the Mirada. "I always wondered what had happened to Mary. I just assumed that she dropped my class," advisor Linde remarked. "Well, at least she got the story completed, and now we can run it in the next edition of the paper," Linde revealed.

The girl, although unavailable for comment, was reported to have asked for an ice cream soda, and reportedly said, "I guess I lost track of the time, but I really wanted to finish the story."

It is with a feeling of pardonable pride that we present to you the 1981-82 Rio Americano Tesoro. After serving as editor for the past 2½ years, I can safely say that this is the most complete, most consistent, and most original of the Rio yearbooks.

Many people gave unselfishly of their time and talents during the busy days and weeks which preceded the publication of the Tesoro. Weeks of hustling after missed deadlines, compensating for a loss of advertisers, and training an inexperienced staff has really kept the editors on their toes.

Although not officially enrolled in the yearbook class, a few students deserve special recognition for their work and encouragement. Tracy Watts, serving as caption editor, worked countless hours at night to help us ensure our anticipated arrival date, Detrea Lucero organized and designed the "senior favorites" section, Susan Kawakami took charge of the advertisements in the middle of the year, and Lee Anne Wong supplied much needed quotes for the book. The staff is truly grateful for the work these students accomplished.

I thank Joe Sugimoto for all of the work and effort which he contributed to developing the yearbooks for the past four years. I sincerely appreciate all that I have learned from him, and I truly respect him as a teacher . . . and as my friend.

Although we are very excited and pleased that the 81-82 Tesoro is officially "out in print," there is also a feeling of sorrow, brought on by the knowledge that with the printing of this book comes the cold realism that for many of us this will be our final endeavor into the journalistic field.

I wish to express my grateful thanks to all those who assisted in compiling this book, and my sincere wish for a very successful and prosperous future.

Craig Simmons, Editor

Marshall, I'm so glad we got to be friends. You are one of the nicest people I've met here at Rio. Stay sweet and have a great summer. We will have an awesome senior year together. Homecoming was great. Thank,

"The stage but echoes back the public voice. The drama's laws the drama's patrons give, for we that live to please, must please to live."

The stage seemed to be a temporary escape from the monotony of the year for many students and faculty. Working through complex facades the students gained confidence, poise and character analysis. At times, roles were intertwined with personalities and the characters developed complexity and originality. With many awards and honors bestowed upon this talented group of students, future roads seem paved with success.

"There is a difference between a dream and a fantasy."

The madrigals stand as the "class" of the musical talent at Rio. With their stylish clothes, well-groomed voices, and an abundance of musical talent, the madrigals are a show-stopper where ever they perform. Whether it be with classical, contemporary, or jazz music, the madrigals always have the "right" sound, and are a major part of the Rio music department.

Although membership in the choir has dropped substantially during the past few years, these fine singers still perform regularly at Rio and at our feeder junior highs. Their sound is still as sweet, and their dedication is hard to compete with. "Keep on singin', don't stop singin', you're gonna be a STAR someday."

The Student Body Play, "Rebel Without a Cause," was a huge success. Playing to "packed houses" for two nights in December, it seemed that the actors could do no wrong, delighting the crowd with every scene. The play supported a cast of twenty-one talented performers, many of which were performing in their acting debuts. Hans Harsch and Justine Reiss recieved accolades for their portrayal of the young, confused teenagers, and Steve Minow did a good job as Jim's best friend, Plato. If this play is any indication of the future of the Rio drama department, then the future looks very promising.

The 1981-82 Rio Americano Marching Band and their director, Ben Fong.

Rio Americano has an award-winning marching band. The band captured many honors and awards during the year, including a first place finish in the Sacramento Admissions Day Parade. Participating in many competitions, including the Cupertino Tournament of Bands, the San Francisco Columbus Day Parade, the Sacramento Band Festival, and the Berkeley Band Day, the musicians gained much experience and made it known across Northern California that they were certainly a band to "contend" with. Aside from their busy competition schedule, the marching band found time to promote school activities, participating in the Homecoming parade and performing at all Rio football games.

The jazz emsemble had a very successful year. Winning numerous competitions throughout the Northern California festival circuit. Competing in the AA division, the band matched musical with over a hundred musical groups from throughout the state during the past year, always scoring near or at the top of every competition. The River Rat Dixieland Band, shown at left, also grooved its way to numerous honors throughout the year.

"SWEET CHARITY," a Neil Simon comedy was featured as the Spring Musical. Jeanne Benedict, in the leading role as Charity Hope Valentine, completely stole the spotlight with her unusually humorous portrayal of the starring character. Jeanne was supported by a very talented cast, including Steve Minow, Keith Farley, Jeff Ritter, and Justine Reiss. This, being Rio's final musical ever, was a fantastic send-off for many of Rio's truly talented performers.

"All the world's a stage, and all of the people are merely players . . . "

At times it seems as if all of the Rio student body is in performing arts. Whether it be exhibiting spirit at rallies, giving lectures in class, or just clowning around with friends, the faculty and students are always "on stage."

SENIORS

"When you're a Senior, all you do is laugh because you finally realize it's all a joke. It's all a joke, and you're the fool"

The motivation behind the Seniors this year was GRADUATION. They anticipated leaving Rio, tying up loose ends, and joining the "real world." Unlike past Senior classes, unity and spirit prevailed throughout the year's activities. The Class of '82 experienced winning in a variety of events, including Sports Spectacular, Academic Decathlon, Mock Trial and Girls Basketball, just to name a few. With the knowledge gained during the past four years, the Seniors can't help but enter a world filled with success.

"I'm about to take my last voyage, a great leap in the dark!"

The realization that 1982 is really here is incomprehensible. As freshmen, graduation seemed so far away that we were not concerned about the responsibilities needed to be taken on during our senior year. But now, due to the unity and closeness that we have shared over the past four years, our class is ready to meet challenges which the world has to offer. The Class of '82 has been a very spirited class, aware of traditions but willing to break those which are pointless and foolish. Most importantly, we have become one big family, and leaving each other to pursue our own dreams is going to be exceedingly difficult.

TRACY WATTS
Senior Class President

When I arrived two years ago, the "Class of 82" struck me as trend setters. Today I still feel the same. You have never settled for the status quo. You have never "wished" for differences at Rio, but lead the way through many obstacles by hard work and cooperative action. To create a difference it means responsible, resourceful leaders striving for change. To see you as young adults, my friends, ready to leave Rio and make your societal mark deeply saddens me, however, having observed you surmount personal challenges, discover your resourcefulness and exhibit a genuine concern for others reduces my sorrow for the few precious moments we have left to share and diminishes my fear for your "tomorrows." Although I sincerely hate to say farewell or see any of you go, "tomorrows" for each of you, young adults, will bring comucopias of lasting treasures to each of us, for you are truly a notable class of individuals on the road to somewhere. It has been my sincere pleasure to know you and to have been a small part of your preparation.

Another year has passed us by and we must face the future as Seniors. The school year of 1981-82 has been a very successful and active one for the Juniors class. It has been a year filled with learning experiences and achievements. It has also been the most unsurpassable for class involvement and spirit, which has made my position of president much more fulfilling and enjoyable. Thank you for your support and concern.

SUSAN BOWER
Junior Class President

What makes me laugh about Rio is the same thing that makes me laugh at myself. Often, I get so wound up in what I am doing that I view the situation as a life and death issue. I run around as though it all mattered. Where in fact, most things work out if I just give them a chance. The same runs true about Rio. Often, if we would take a deep breath and look at the situation, we would see it can be resolved. Rio makes me laugh in that we often "awfulize" a particular situation and are not willing to relax like Chickens with our heads cut off?

"Junior year is like walking through the 'Twilight Zone' — You really don't know whether you are coming or going."

The class of 1984 is slowly but surely moving up at Rio. No longer do we wander around for hours looking for a certain classroom or have upper classmen call us "Froshs." At the beginning of this year our class was deeply in debt, but after hard work and participation by all class members this debt has been nullified. The class of '84 has grown much closer as a class, because of this the spirit and enthusiasm of the class have risen sharply. I enjoyed being President and am thankful to the class for having elected me.

Kevin Johnson
Sophomore Class President

Last year as I wrote, we were just beginning as an entering freshman class and counselor. Now here we are half way through! In these first two years I have come to appreciate more and more the quality of the class of 84. The students of the Sophomore class have proven to be responsible, creative, and diverse. They have received compliments during the year from many different sources including the community, the administration, and the other counselors here at Rio. I want to commend the entire class on your successful completion of the first half of your high school career. Have a wonderful summer!

Our first year at Rio has been quite a learning process. We came here with little knowledge or expectations that we could make an impact as Freshmen. However, the Class of '85 has "has held it's own" in student functions! There are many additional activities and ideas that we were not able to impliment this year, but with each successful year, the Class of '85 should have more knowledge, experience, and maturity to make many significant contributions to Rio Americano.

CHRISSI TANAKA
Freshman Class President

For me, the freshman year is one of many mixed feelings. There is the anxiety of the unknown in September when a sea of new faces greet me and I wonder what the next four years will be like with them. There is frustration in trying to put the right names with the faces and make them come to mind when I want them to. There is a feeling of impatience when it seems to be taking too long for some of us to develop a sense of trust with each other. There is a great sense of warmth and pleasure when others of us have developed a good feeling of friendship and communication.

I think it will be a good four years for all of us. This year has gone well. The class is an aggregation of energetic, talented and enthusiastic people. Their interests, activities and goals are as diverse as would be found in a small city.

As I have gotten to know each freshman a little better and a little more my sense of adventure has grown and I am hooked by their charm and their head long rush into their destinies.

1. Freshman princess Lennie Stachelek is excited during the 1981 Homecoming parade. 2. "Hi!, We're frosh, and were proud!" 3. The freshman team had a little trouble building a pyramid during Sports Spectacular. 4. Julie Sherburne likes to keep her eyes on her work.

1. Art is a fascinating way to relieve tension for Peter Wishim. 2. Al Wickers is a major tennis prospect for all interested colleges — OK, maybe in 1985? 3. Peter Cooper enjoys the more intellectual avenues which Rio provides. 4. Crissi Tanaka cheers her girls soccer team on to victory. 5. Lennie Stachelek enjoys bundling up after a hard race. 6. John Bayless and Ryan Scott are really just freshman at heart. 7. "Side ball in the corner pocket — Whoops! Wrong game." 8. Denise Jurich is one who believes in the "New Wave."

"The freshman year is really exciting; it's a fresh start and everything is new. It's the experience of a lifetime, but if you really don't know what's going on, you're gonna get burned!"

 A JOVAN PRESENTATION

A black and white photograph of a person wearing a full-body protective suit, including a hood and a helmet with a visor. The person is standing outdoors and appears to be working on a piece of equipment mounted on a vertical post. The equipment has a circular dial or gauge. Several red lines are drawn over the photograph, starting from the bottom left and curving upwards towards the equipment, possibly indicating a path or a connection. The background is a light, hazy area, possibly a body of water or a distant shore.

Marshall,

this is for all the time we've spent together and all the things we've done. Like jaczzi~~ing~~ parties as long as we can, staying up till 4:44 in the morning, calling dial-a-story + trying to repeat the story, and then having to call again the next day 'cause you were too drunk to remember it. letter stealing and taking flags from the carwash, eating M+M's + taking straight shots of Bacardi with milk

FADS/NEWS

"What if this present were the world's last night?"

Media coverage expanded to bring us more than we actually wanted to know, and through that medium we increased knowledge about Farrah and Lee, Farrah and Ryan, Ryan and Tatum, Tatum and whoever, whatever. The students were aware of the hideousness of "media blitzes" and consequently, many obnoxiously juvenile movies and television programs fell by the wayside. The students were aware, though, of their importance in the future of the world and seemed to accept the challenges with "Open Arms."

"Somewhere the sun is shining . . ."

Chasers, sleeping with 8 people on my waterbed, the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, tickle fights, and staging orgy's to fool Rick, finding 4 leaf clovers, jumping to the jumping song, spending afternoons everyday after school at McDonalds, swimming in the freezing pool in January to get ready for finals, swimming races in the hall, strobe lights,

1. Brig. Gen. James Dozier tells of his ordeal, 42 days in a tent, with Italian kidnappers. 2. Wayne "The Great" Gretzky, 21 year-old superstar center for the Edmonton Oilers, cheers another goal. 3. Reagan had many budget problems to contend with, but his first year in office still kept him smiling. 4. Nancy Reagan found criticism of her new china surfacing, but those who witnessed the new edition, proclaimed it "very elegant." 5. Nancy also had her share a criticism over her clothing choices. 6. Promising to "tell all," Patty Hearst revealed her life in Every Secret Thing. 7. Budget Director, David Stockman, had the job of defending "Reaganomics." 8. For Sir Freddie Laker, it was a "short way down" as he watched his air service go bankrupt in 1982. 9. In a memorable event, vetren screen actors Henry Fonda and Katherine Hepburn made screen magic in "On Golden Pond." 10. They were worried about snow, but took off in one of the worst snowstorms in Washington history — such was the story of the ill-fated Air Florida jetliner, whose crash killed 78 people.

As we grope along the tunnel of history, the light at the end never grows any brighter, and the constant series of events keeps repeating on the walls. Which is not to say that the events are predictable; The tunnel twists and turns, and it is hard to see very far ahead. It was a momentous year, but things weren't always what they promised to be. Ronald Reagan's "New Federalism," promised sweeping economic reforms, Poland's "Martial law state" seemed inconceivable to the "solidarity unions," and finding the killer of 28 black Atlanta children seemed impossible. Around the world, people suffered at the hands of others, while here at home, the unemployed and the elderly suffered at the hands of the government. Most people realized, though, that we were on the threshold of change. Which images of this year will be remembered? The icy waters of the Potomac — grave for 78 crash victims, or David Stockman regailing his "trojan horse" theories about "Reaganomics?" The remarkable comeback story of the San Francisco 49'ers, Princess Diana's "revolutionary" hair style, or perhaps Ronald Reagan terminating striking air-traffic controllers? Or will history single out some event, minor in the scheme of this year, that will later be seen as the start of a trend that will change the world, so that we will look back and say, there was the beginning, if only we had known it?

The annual "school favorites" survey was held in the month of January, with 700 students participating. The results of that poll can be found on these two pages. Newcomers, such as Tom Selleck, Meryl Streep, The Go-Go's, General Hospital, and Kaluha dominated the survey, while "established favorites," such as beer, MASH, Jane Fonda, and Burt Reynolds continued to "make their mark." Above all, the survey captures the diversity of tastes in the student body. The numbers in parentheses represent last years rankings.

The newly restored capitol gleams pure white against the blue sky of the Golden State. The massive dome and soaring Corinthian columns leave no doubt: This is the center of political power in the great state of California. A testimonial to age and grace as well as modern technology, the project took seven years and $68 million to complete. It could be called the most complex and possibly the most extensive restoration involved in any single historic building in the nation.

Friends smiles, our football team, Mr. Linde's jokes?, parties, and Rio cliques were all sources of laughter for the students. Whether we realize it or not, by laughing at the year's events, we develop a sense of individuality, but still manage to retain unity with our friends and acquaintances. "I'm sorry, we're not laughing at you — We're laughing with you!"

Keeping the spirit alive for nine months proved to be very tiresome for some, but the knowledge of upcoming vacations and increased temperatures resparked the enthusiasm of the masses and the school continued to flourish excitedly. The eager persistence of the students will forever abound throughout the institution.

The Mercedes-Benz 240D: the $23,000* sedan based on the timeless idea that function should always come first.

Frivolity is out. The 240 D is one and a half tons of cold engineering logic—an automobile meant to reflect not your wealth but your perspicacity.

People choose the 240 D Sedan because—like Mercedes-Benz engineers—they believe that functional efficiency seldom comes from shortcuts.

The 240 D is powered by one of the saner-sized engines in its class: a four cylinder diesel engine, displacing just 2,4 liters.

Few engines of any size are more expensively machined and balanced. (All pistons and connecting rods, for instance, are individually balanced as a set.) Such precision helps the 240 D's engine face the prospect of long, hard, heavy use unafraid.

This power plant is so sophisticated in design that a built-in device adjusts the fuel injection rate barometrically, to help the 240 D run efficiently at 7,000 feet or at sea level.

Yet it is so simple in operation that for its first 10,000 miles, total scheduled maintenance is about three hours.

$558 for 10,000 miles?

The 240 D lets you choose between maximum convenience and maximum mileage with four-speed automatic or four-speed manual versions.

Even the automatic hardly guzzles fuel. In fact, at an average cost of $1.34-per-gallon for diesel fuel in the U.S. and with the EPA mileage figure of 24 mpg estimated, the automatic 240 D should take you 10,000 miles for about $558.

No gadgets, no baubles
The 240 D is engineered to take the strains of high mileage and hard driving in stride.

The car's lack of shimmy and shake on ugly roads owes much to its rigid, welded steel fuselage—a unit body.

The efficiency of tenacious roadholding is standard.

Its four-wheel disc brakes (with 456 sq. in. of swept area) could stop a vehicle many times its size and weight.

The 240 D is not shy of potholed roads, humpbacked roads, or twisty roads. Sold as it is in 90 countries—few blessed with superhighways—it could not afford to be.

Gadgets and baubles are absent. What could these add to efficiency? An electronic cruise control is provided, allowing you to hold a steady 55-mph—without fuel-wasting ups and downs.

Because the 240 D is meant to take efficient care of its occupants, it incorporates 120 safety features. Many of these satisfy Federal laws. And many more are incorporated to satisfy the Mercedes-Benz obsession with safety.

Robots, hands, eyes

A well-built car is usually a more efficient car. It is for this reason that Mercedes-Benz lavishes such care on the 240 D's construction and finish.

It does not feel tinny. The body is not bolted together but fused together as a unit structure—4,786 welds strong.

Robots precision-weld the body. Since robots can't smooth body seams and joints, skilled workmen do.

The efficiency of value

The 240 D is a sensible but not a Spartan automobile. Even air conditioning is standard, and the interior is accented with a traditional wood grain that is created by real wood.

Mercedes-Benz cars in America have written such a legend of retained value that this must be considered alongside that $23,000 price tag. These cars—including the 240 D—have been shown to retain 80 percent of their original value after the first three years.

In this category, as in others, there is simply no other automobile like the Mercedes-Benz 240 D Sedan. At $23,000 or any price.

*Approximate suggested advertised delivered price at port of entry.

MAYBE YOU NEED MORE THAN A SUMMER BETWEEN HIGH SCHOOL AND COLLEGE.

Serving 2 or 3 years in today's Army can give you much of what colleges value most.

Like money, maturity, discipline and perspective.

Take money.

The Army's financial assistance program can help you accumulate as much as $15,200 for college in a short two-year enlistment. In 3 years, as much as $20,100.

You can accumulate a lot of maturity, too.

Handling live grenades or 50 tons of tank has a way of doing that.

And the discipline you acquire in the Army has a way of helping you develop the study habits that college requires.

As for your perspective—your 2 or 3 years in the Army will leave you young enough to enjoy college, but old enough to really value it.

If you're not committed to going right to college, write to us. Send one of the postcards in this book. Or call 800-421-4422 toll free. In California, call 800-252-0011. Alaska and Hawaii, 800-423-2244.

Marshall;
to real kinda punk guy.
I love your new hair cut. Also it fun meeting you.

Marshall - as another
you and I had fun
relate to one playin' huh? We had English ball. You in games too much for are sometimes. We me had fun gettin'
high in all the good days.

Dear Marshall,
Well, as I sit here with you at the beginning of our Senior Sunrise, I contemplate
the times we've had over past three years. Aren't you psyched in Dick's class? I am, I'm to be a forward SENIOR! I'm looking play & have no work!
(all play & have a killer summer!)
Love,
Julie

in

Marshall -
well we made it! we're now seniors! we've lived through
Mr. Zude's jokes (barely) and through sangie & song arguing over B.T. Washington. Well third year we got to see more of each other, and am glad! Going up to Zahol was a blast (especially the time it snowed!) & wish Jen and I liked the CLASH more-cause them we'd go to the concert. Remember, the time
Mike (that big fat cat) yelled at Russell to get out of the driveway? Oh well! Ya know - time has gone by so fast - it seems like we should still be freshman - ya know? (its a terrible thing to say.) But, so many times we sat on the lawn in a circle, and sometimes playing Frisbee. But those days are gone. Hey - remember Guker? I got you with the whip cream - and we bought a half-gallon of milk? and all those cookies? and fed the fish? well, am definitely going to have a party (more like parties) and your at the top of the list! Oh, you ever want to go to Zahol.....
just let me know, but just dont bring any whip cream.

Bul Kel

Well all the should all have a sad. So you next year. So keep cool
ad dont skoom
fom ya
Lari
to much.

p.s. - well go and get your name recent soon too!

Dearest Marshall -
It's been great with you & Russell especially through the twilight zone! I hope your summer was as fun as your hoping!
Just wishes -

Who's book is this?
I couldn't tell by the first page. Party a lot this summer so we can exchange drug stories next fall, but don't party so much that you can't remember what you did ok?
So I shall see you next year or over the summer probably on the party scene.
Bye, love
Maurin

Hi Guy!
MK

Marshall, I don't know how great you are getting to be! But you always met you! Before you talked to everyone I always wanted to did!
A big love
